Just a Pair of Hands: The Stories of Lillian Beard

Directed by Bill Moody

Produced by Dan Veltri, Treehouse Video

As an infant, Lillian was "adopted" in 1908 by her parents who were Deaf. By the 1920s, teen-ager Lillian was interpreting for her parents, her parents' friends, and eventually for most of the Deaf community in Houston, Texas. She was one of many Interpreters with Deaf Parents who were called to serve the hundreds of Deaf communities around this country.

For Texas interpreters, she is extra special. Ask the elders of Deaf communities all over the country, and they will tell you stories about their pioneer interpreters from the early days. These pioneers had the calling to help Deaf people succeed in communicating in a world where people held gross misconceptions about the Deaf.

"Miss Lillian" mentored and encouraged interpreters over the span of a 70-year career, and her stories run the gamut from CODA stories and adopted kid stories, to meeting Helen Keller, and to interpreting for the 1964 meeting in which RID was founded and serving on the very first RID Board of Directors.

Her work at First Baptist Church in Houston was based on respect: for Deaf people and for their precious language, for the "ways" of Deaf people, and for the sometimes conflicting "ways" of people who could hear - respect for both sides.

Humble and generous, Lillian's stories educate and entertain - not to be missed!
