What shapes our values? Who are our heroes? Journey through Windell's story and you may discover your own answers to these questions. Windell takes you through decades of laughs, tribulations, and the uncertainty that he experienced personally and vicariously through his mother and father. Visit the scene of his mother's train accident, pop back into his kindergarten class, where as a CODA he had his first introduction to the hearing world. Watch as his parents' thoughts, stories and experiences are shared with exciting twists and turns that give the audience an inside look at growing up with Deaf parents.

Growing up Windell has always seen his father and mother recount their life story. Windell got to see firsthand ASL storytelling, living the experiences and feeling the jolt from the twist and turns, even if it was the hundredth time he seen the story. Seeing and feeling these ASL stories had lead Windell to the creation of a live show in order to share his parents beautiful story with the twist and turns he beheld growing up in a Deaf home. Audiences get a taste of various emotions: laughter, joy, sadness, hurt, frustration and uplifting moments that will leave the audience with courage, interest and hopefully experiencing these moments can put not only each audience member's life in perspective but also their view of the Deaf community and CODAs.

S.E.E. ME FAIL

"I Can't Believe It's Not ASL!" - S.E.E. with half the classifiers and none of the concepts!

Signing Exact English (I and II), forced oralism, and ignorance have gotten on Wink's last Non Manual Marker! Enjoy bits from his on-the-road stand-up comedy performed in American Sign Language with some in-studio videos to give a one-on-one mentoring experience!

Reviews:

-- "I laughed so hard my beret fell on William Stokoe lap!" ~ Laurent Clerc

-- "He truly hit a grand slam with this one" ~ "Dummy" Hoy

-- "Pizza!" ~ Keith Wann

-- "I've seen people suck before, but that was the suckiest piece of suck that ever sucked!" ~ Alexander Graham Bell

Perfect for: Recovering S.E.E. signers, ignorant Alexander Graham Bell members, interpreters whose all day job just got cancelled, ASL students (no joke here, they are fragile), and of course Deaf clubs to be able to entertain young CODAs at 2 am.

On the road and in-studio! Bits include: CODA/Gorilla, Interpreter Interrogation, Interpreter Pick Up Lines, Nightmare on Interpreter AVE, and S.E.E. 3.
