Presents

“A Thumb is a Finger!”

What no one tells you about Medical Interpreting”

By Kim Hunt, NIC Master; TX BEI IV/Court/Medical Certified Interpreter

Saturday, February 24, 2018

9:00 A.M.-4:00 P.M

(One hour lunch on your own-TJC cafeteria available)

BEI .6 CEU’s Approved

Target Audience: Sign Language Interpreters, ITP Students

Workshop/Course Description: As medical interpreters we must know the complexities of the human anatomy as well as the complex visual language of ASL. Proficiency at blending these dynamics can be challenging at best. This scope of practice includes a wide variation of the Deaf population needing medical services, which could include prenatal, geriatrics, mental health, labs, clinics, specialists and more. We will explore and evaluate interpreting, sight translation within medical encounters, along with common physical production and ethical errors. Participants will engage in collaborative kinesthetic activities involving simulations on a variety of medical topics. Do you have horripilation, diurnal enuresis or vasovagal syncope even thinking about medical interpreting? Don’t panic! There is a remedy for you!
